TEST YOUR LITTER IQ AND WHAT OUR QUIZ SAYS ABOUT YOU!

Did you know?

When waste is placed in the proper bin, the corporations who produce that waste are required by provincial law to pay for it to be managed. When waste lands in the right bin, in legal terms, it's called "end-of-life waste."

When waste goes anywhere other than the bin, it's litter, and taxpayers alone bear the high cost. Producers don't have to pay anything.

It's better to bin it!
